

Create a project using create-react-app and design a two page application. Where the first page would have a form with the following inputs:

1. Name
2. Surname
3. Email ID

And whatever the user input would be you will be sending that data to actions and then to reducers and then use that data on the second page showing all the respective value. The navigation to the second page should be done from the first page.